Mr. Blaine has written a letter declining to be a candidate for President. But it was such a letter that will probably secure his nomination without opposition.

FOR HARRIS NOW.

The Lexington Observer lost no opportunity, during the race for Governor, to say a mean thing of Senator Harris. But the Observer talks truthfully in the subjoined paragraph: "Senator Harris is one of the most popular men now in the General Assembly. Among his warmest friends are scores of those who opposed him in his late canvass for the chief magistracy of the State. It will take another Buckner to defeat him for any State office to which he may aspire in the future, and Buckners are so scarce that it is not at all likely that one man will meet two of them in a political lifetime."

THE LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Chenault has had the legislative hall tendered to Mrs. Mary B. Clay for a lecture on Woman's Rights on the evenings of the 20th and 21st.

House bill providing a punishment of $100 fine for carrying concealed weapons, to be paid by work at $2 per day, if not otherwise paid.

Senate bill to pay Circuit Judges $1,000 per year.

The Governor has signed the bill changing time of meeting of State Board of Equalization.

Senate bill paying Jailers 60 cents a day for board of prisoners.

A bill to prevent drunkenness of any State or county officer.

A bill to make a reformatory of the Branch penitentiary.

A whipping-post for vagrants.

A bill providing that 15 years adverse possession give title over all claims to land.

KENTUCKY'S DIAMONDS AS LISTED FOR TAXATION.

The Hewitt Revenue Law, that has done a great good for Kentucky, imposes a tax on diamonds, and provides that they be listed separately and have their value attached. The Auditor's report, that has been presented to the General Assembly, discloses some wonders relative to the diamonds owned in the State. The whole number of diamonds in Kentucky, as appears from the Auditor's report, taken from the assessors' books, is only nine hundred and thirty-seven. Whether a diamond, as set forth by the Auditor's report, means simply one diamond, or all the diamonds belonging to one person, we do not know. But to give the problem the advantage of the guess, and say all the diamonds of one person is meant, leaves the great State of Kentucky with only nine hundred and thirty-seven diamonds, and owners with a value of $292,505.

Only fifty-six counties out of the one hundred and nineteen, report any diamonds at all. Boyle county, strange as it may appear, heads the list with one hundred and seventy-seven diamonds valued at $11,550. Woodford comes next with ninety-five valued at $10,845. Then Bourbon with eighty-two valued at $8,065. Franklin follows with seventy-four, worth $7,425. Montgomery lists next only fifty at a value of $3,045. Mercer has forty-two worth $2,635. Oldham comes seventh with thirty-six rated at $3,125. The number drops down after Oldham into the twenties and teens and on down to the bottom.

Madison county reports thirteen diamonds worth $3,230, and Clark, Fayette, Rockcastle, Jackson, and Estill report none. Jessamine lists thirty-two worth $2,135, and Garrard seven at $505 total. It will be seen in the list above set forth that the girls down at Frankfort wear diamonds worth on the average $100, or a finer quality than any of the others, except Madison, whose diamonds reach the princely sum of $800 on the average. Montgomery girls seem satisfied with $50 diamonds.

Jefferson county reports twenty-three diamonds, while at any large party in Louisville several hundred may be seen, but what Jefferson lacks in number she makes up in value, as the average is put away up at $5,523. Campbell county, which includes Newport, lists nineteen at $1,615, and Kenton, which includes Covington, reports none, nor does Henderson report any. Warren, which includes Bowling Green, reports none.

These counties that fail to report in the diamond column, we hope, gave theirs in under some other head.

During the past year about 1,800 Islanders, 400 Scandinavians and 300 Germans have become actual settlers in Manitoba and the Northwest. The statistics represent the bulk of the average immigration.

AT THE CAPITAL.

(Correspondence CLIMAX.)
WASHINGTON D. C. Feb. 15, 1888.
Virginia's retiring Senator—Riddinger—still persists in the Senate having open Executive sessions. He has declared his intention of bringing the question up every day that he can get the recognition of the Chair until the Senate by some positive declaratory action sets its stamp of disapproval on innovation. In the last Executive session the Senator occupied the whole time in speaking upon his resolution, and so no Executive business was transacted. The Senator openly charged that speeches made in secret sessions by Senators who have as Private Secretary newspaper correspondents are invariably published in the leading New York dailies, and ridiculed the idea of the sessions being called secret. He declares his intention of calling up his resolution again on Monday.

Dennis Kearney, the Sand lot orator, has been acting himself before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. He is stamping in favor of preventing Cumming's bill to totally restrict Chinese immigration. His manner before the Committee was exceedingly offensive and when some of his statements were questioned by Representative Hill of the Committee he made a personal attack on him and threatened to go into the Representatives' district next fall and get his constituents to pelt him with dead cats and baked snails, which his friends, the Chinese, eat. The Committee bore with the demagogue who injured the good cause rather than benefited it.

The large numbers of the country have succeeded in getting a favorable report from the Committee on Post-offices forbidding the sending through the mails at newspaper rates or as second class matter, tri-weekly publications such as the Seaside Library, free cheap publications have reached an enormous circulation by reason of standard literature, in a cheap form. The sale of this low-priced literature has made such friends on the business of high-priced publishers that the latter complained of the disadvantages at which they were placed in the postal rates and hence the amendment to the postal laws.

The House Committee on Rivers and Harbors is being besieged by delegations from all parts of the country to assign some of the Treasury surplus to them for use on some one or more streams in their State. So far the Committee has not been able to formulate any bill but it is making notes from what is submitted by the various delegations and will endeavor to do something for all of them. It is thought that the bill provides for extending something like at least $10,000,000. This would be ample for an account and complete further appropriations in the next session for carrying on the same improvements. To appropriate at this time for the completion of these many projects would call for nearly $40,000,000, and that would reduce the prospects of any further relief at this time.

There have already been introduced about 200 bills relating to the tariff reduction and while no one is practically still many of them contain some good provisions which are being called by the Committee on Ways and Means and will be used in preparing the bill to be submitted by that Committee as the measure of the party. It is probable that the bill may be ready for report by the Committee within the next three weeks.

THIN COLUMN.

An Exchange finds that the Courier-Journal has made Mr. Sankey and another singer together perform a solo at the Moody meetings. The Courier-Journal was always musically inclined.

It Kentucky should get into a war with West Virginia over the McGays, and into another with Indiana over that little island down in the Ohio, the numerous columns and other military men can be utilized.

The Devil's Lake, Dakota, Interior, chronicler of the subject in his marriage column: Michael H. Rutledge and Miss Barbara Fyten were married at 9:30 on the 21st at the Catholic church by Father Claude. The witnesses were Joseph Leide and Miss Mary Horton.

Editorial CLIMAX.—On last Friday night, when I was deeply interested in perusing the "Thin Column," that unscrupulous competitor of mine, old Goose Bone, slipped in on the community a quantity of ice and steel, which made things look rather wintry next morning. I hope the public generally will excuse me this time. I promise that such carelessness on my part shall not occur again.

Respectfully,
GREENWOOD HOO.

NEWS PARAGRAPHS.

Charles Arbuckle, the wealthy coffee merchant, against Miss Campbell recently obtained a verdict of $45,000 damages for breach of promise, has had a disastrous year financially. He is still a wealthy man, but has lost a good deal of money in the last twelve months. He was largely interested in M. E. Poe's banking house at Cheyenne, Wyo., which closed its doors last summer.

Last Friday Dr. A. W. Johnstone of Danville performed an ovariectomy on Mrs. B. F. Holder, of Night Angel, removing a tumor that weighed 30 pounds. The case though an exceedingly rare one, was done nicely and hopes are entertained of her recovery. This is quite likely the first time this operation was ever performed in the county.—Whitewater Democrat.

Eugene Zimmerman, well known in connection with railroad enterprises in Kentucky, and a former director in the Fidelity Bank, of Cincinnati, who was indicted during his absence in Europe for complicity in the wrong transactions in that institution, has returned. Friday he appeared before Judge Sage, and entering a plea of not guilty, was released on bond in the sum of $20,000.

The Supreme Court of Wisconsin has decided that women can legally vote in that State only on questions relating to public schools. Under an act of the Legislature of 1885, Mrs. Olympia Brown Willis, of Racine, claimed the right of general suffrage, and on being refused made the election officers, recovering damages in $5,000. The Supreme Court reversed this decision, holding that the act in question restricted rather than extended the right of suffrage.

Last Monday Mrs. Phillip Skene, of this city, was divorced on the plea that her husband was in the penitentiary serving a life sentence for an infamous crime. Tuesday morning she became Mrs. Wm. A. Webb, through the medium of a marriage license and a nuptial. This is promptness personified, though it has been a while. Still, when the late change to a better temperature is considered, it may be put down as near the head of the record for quick time.—Courier-Journal.

At a special term of the Circuit Court last January David Kimbrell was sent to the penitentiary for two years for stealing the horse of Asa Brock of Gooden precinct. A few weeks after this incarceration, and while working on the Knoxville railroad near Pineville, he escaped, and for some time he has been hovering about a tenement house on the farm of E. Bauman, near Oak Run, morning Policeman Madigan, Allen and Scoles captured him, and the next day he was taken to Frankfort. Kimbrell says that a part of the time since his escape was spent in Canada and a part in Indiana.—Whitewater Democrat.

During the Christmas holidays Sam Yowell, a Hustonville coachman, was arrested and brought to jail, charged with robbing an officer. County Attorney Carpenter started to take him back to Hustonville the next day for trial, but the negro very quietly walked off and left Mr. Carpenter to take the cold drive alone. He was tried anyway, and a jury of twelve men in full session against him. The other day he went to Squire John Bell and asked him for an order to Jailor Owens for 15 days board which being given him he promptly delivered to that officer. It is rare that the lawbreaker takes his own medicine to the latter and thus deserves to be considered a considerable for his act.—Stauffer Journal.

The Mississippi House has adopted a memorial to Congress protesting against the passage of the Senate bill having for its object the prevention of the use of cotton-seed oil as a substitute for hog lard, and proposing to tax the oil and the privilege of manufacturing and dealing therein. The memorialists claim that cotton-seed oil is a perfectly wholesome article, and should not be discriminated against in favor of any other article of American manufacture or commerce.

The District Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the first district will hold its next regular meeting at Lebanon, Thursday and Friday, the 23rd and 24th of February. Different subjects connected with our great work will be presented in papers by the ladies and afterward discussed.

Mrs. Mary Woodbridge, from Ohio, for years the Recording Secretary of the National Union, will be in attendance to help by her counsel and to lecture Friday evening.

All women who are interested in the Home or the Saloon, who either they have connected themselves with the W. C. T. U. or not are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. L. M. DORRIS, Cor. Sec'y.

CLOSING OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The closing exercises of the City School took place at the school house on Second street, February 3rd. It is to be regretted that neither of our city papers was represented at this good report could be made for the public. (It is to be regretted that the editor was not notified. Ed. CLIMAX.) The exercises consisted of essays, select readings, lectures and declamations. All were good, and reflected great credit to both teachers and pupils. There were eight scholars who finished the course and received certificates viz.: F. Burns, S. Newton, S. Myers, D. Connelton, Maggie McCollum, F. Kelley, Pearl Gentry, Corbette Gentry. Then the three teachers offered prizes. Miss Peyton offered one for the best scholarship, which was won by Frank Burns. One for the best drawing of maps, was awarded to Wm. Wheeler. Miss Frazee won one on best scholarship, awarded to Besie Bendel. One for good deportment to L. Duncan. One who was best in third reader, to S. Higgins. Miss Harcourt for best recitation to Lucy Prather. Of the essays and readings, etc. Miss Connelton's recitation, Mr. Frank Burns' reading, Besie Bendel's recitation, and last but not least, Pearl Gentry's "Lost Hymn," deserve special mention.

Yell, Pearl Gentry shows a talent for her school, has taken extra pains with her one, or perhaps both. All were good. Especially did we enjoy Dr. Hamilton's remarks.

A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the fortunate ones present and missed by those not present. May the City School continue to be a blessing to the school children of Richmond, should the citizens of Richmond view this school and see what it is, and feel what it ought to be, I think it would not be many months until our booming city would rank with its neighbor cities in good graded schools. The session was only five months. It ought to be ten. Mr. Editor, agitate this question. 'Tis more important than gas, artificial or natural.

The Hayden land sales in Marion county, on last Tuesday were well attended. Mr. D. W. Dunn, of Garrard, bought the home tract of 20 acres at $30; also the second tract of 222 acres at $18. The third, of 1511 acres, was knocked off to Mr. James Wade at $19.50 per acre, and the fourth, of 155 acres, was purchased at $23.25 per acre by Taylor & Able.

The farm containing 104 acres was sold at the same time to John M. Glascock for $44 per acre.

Mr. H. H. Owsley, proprietor of Putnam Stock Farm, has leased to Mr. W. R. Lettler, of Richmond, Ky., the running qualities of three two-year-old race fillies, two Longfellow and one Glenary, for the seasons of 1888 and 1889. These youngsters are all promising ones, and will not doubt be heard from the stakes and purses for which they contend.—Whitewater Clipper.

Gen. W. T. Whithers, of Lexington, has made the following sales of highbred trotters: Pyramidal, 3-year-old, by Almont, (dam Maggie Dunn, by Bourbon Chief), to W. S. Wolford, Kentucky, O. Price $1,600. Templar, b., foaled 1885, by Happy Medium, dam Baldpate, by Balsora, to C. F. Croston, Lexington. Price $1,750. Capelan, b., foaled 1882, by Almont, dam Lady Richelieu, to F. Merrill, Manchester, N. H. Price $1,000.

In 1887, 1,100 steamships carried out 50,781,326 bushels of wheat from New York. There were 32,962,600 bushels taken in from 700 British ships, 3,014,574 bushels in 140 German ships and 30,000 in 100 other ships. The American ship making five loads in the total of 11,071, and carrying 340,576 bushels of wheat in the total of 50,781,326. There were besides seventy-four ships loaded with wheat aggregating 1,992,921 bushels in sailing vessels, and Uncle Sam had therein one vessel, a catboat, perhaps, carrying 34,400 bushels.

The Winnipeg, Manitoba, Call peaks as follows of a stove for slag straw and hay for fuel. The stove being attached on exhibition at Messrs Manufacturing Co's. office seems exceedingly simple and very practicable. It may be attached to any ordinary cook or heating stove in a few minutes. It weighs less than fifty pounds and even who has the patent right can be sold for $15 or $20. The attachment comprises a small drum which is filled in the fuel house with hay, straw or weeds, and inverted on the fire pot which is located on the stove hearth, and connection is made with the stove proper by removing the front door. A single fire will heat nearly two hours and gives as good results as wood. There will be no trouble lighting fires with this system. Mr. McBride has recently patented a new stove and it is likely that manufacturing industry will be established for the production of straw burning cook and heating stoves and attachments.

Capt. T. D. English reports the public sale of Miss Alma and W. T. Robinson to Mercer county, Jan. 31, largely attended and bidding spirited throughout. The loss of stock on the great ranches of the West and North-west during the present winter is likely to exceed that of last season. It is reported that in Montana alone 500,000 head of cattle have perished from the cold, and other sections have suffered to almost an equal extent. This disastrous experience is in favor of an adjustment of the stock interests of the great West to its climatic conditions, and must result, sooner or later, in the adoption of measures for the proper care and protection of live stock against the severity of the winter in the sections devoted to that interest. The plan of keeping great herds of cattle without the provision of shelter and food in the winter is no longer an economical way of producing beef. The losses entailed by one disastrous season swallow up the profit of a number of years, and the hazards of the business outrun its chances. The method of improving ranches by the erection of sheds and the providing of fodder for the winter is slower than the present plan of allowing cattle to trust to the resources of the "range" for subsistence, but it is much surer, and in the end would prove more remunerative. The certainty of the returns would justify the smaller margin, which is of public interest. The conversion of vast, unimproved ranches into cultivated farms is to be encouraged. It is much better for the whole country to have the majority of the West filled up with producers and actual settlers than to be taken up by cattle kings.—Kansas City Star.
